

AI SCRIPTS — 10 (5 slideshows + 5 movies, 20–25s each)

These are the ten AI-generated scripts from the 18 Aug batch, pulled out into their own downloadable file. Two styles:

- SLIDESHOW (S1–S5) — AI photo series + on-screen captions, exactly like the Meg/Lily format you sent: two consistent people, word-for-word identical descriptions in every image, "apply to all" house look at the bottom, no text in the image — captions go on in Studio.

- MOVIE (M1–M5) — AI still → animate → your recorded voiceover. Reference photos of the man (and woman) on every Animate action so the faces don't drift.

Each one answers WHAT / WHO / WHEN / WHERE / HOW in the caption. Hook lands first, in the first three seconds.

Hashtags (3–4 max):

#addictionrecovery #lovinganaddict #recoverysupport #soberpartner

On the free-app / 13-tracks lines, swap one for #freeapp.

SECTION 1 — SLIDESHOW (AI photo series + captions)

The two people (copy these descriptions word for word into every prompt):

HIM: a bald bearded Black man in his late 40s, tired eyes, ordinary t-shirt. HER: a Black woman in her mid-40s with long braids, tired eyes, a cardigan.

Apply to all shots: cinematic photograph, shot on 35mm, shallow depth of field, warm practical light from lamps and screens only, muted color grade, documentary realism, vertical 9:16 composition, ordinary American home, no text in the image.

Pace: 8 shots × 3s each = 24s. Put the on-screen caption on each shot in Studio (tap-to-sync). Hook is the first caption; it must appear on shot 1.

S1 — "The counter" · supporter · 8 shots · 24s

YouTube title: Living with a partner who drinks — the counting nobody sees TikTok / Facebook: I stopped asking what time he'd be home. I started counting instead.

The situation:

- WHAT — The quiet surveillance of loving someone who drinks; keeping score to feel some control.
- WHO — HER, the supporter; HIM, the one drinking.
- WHEN — Night after night, for years.
- WHERE — Their home: the garage, the hallway, the bathroom mirror.
- HOW — She gets her own program instead of only counting his; the app's supporter section ends the one-woman surveillance shift.

Shots (HIM and HER, word-for-word above):

1. HER awake on one side of a bed at night, the other half empty and undisturbed, a strip of light under the door.

CAPTION: "I stopped asking what time he'd be home"

1. Close on HER hands sorting bottles into a recycling bin in a dim garage, counting under her breath.

CAPTION: "I started counting instead"

1. HER standing in a bathroom mirror, mouth open mid-sentence, rehearsing something to her own reflection.

CAPTION: "I practised how to say it so it wouldn't turn into a fight"

1. HIM asleep on a couch in a dark living room, one arm over his eyes, a bottle on the floor out of focus.

CAPTION: "He didn't see me counting. He never did"

1. HER at a kitchen table with a cold cup of coffee and a phone face-down in front of her.

CAPTION: "Everybody kept saying I was overreacting"

1. Close on HER hands writing in a notebook at the same table, morning light.

CAPTION: "I wasn't. I was the only one keeping track"

1. HER holding a phone in the dim kitchen, screen light on her face, shoulders dropping as she exhales.

CAPTION: "That exhaustion has a name. It isn't nagging"

1. The same kitchen in full morning light, HER with a second mug across from an empty chair, calm.

CAPTION: "So I got my own day one"

Caption: WHO — HER, the wife watching it happen; HIM, the one drinking. WHAT — the counting nobody sees, the surveillance shift she never signed up for. WHEN — night after night, for years. WHERE — their home: the garage, the hallway, the mirror. HOW — she stops being the only one keeping track and gets her own day one, free. You're not overreacting. Link in bio.

S2 — "The 2am kitchen" · addict · 8 shots · 24s

YouTube title: Why you relapse at 2am (and what to do instead) TikTok / Facebook: It's never a problem at noon. It's 2am.

The situation:

- WHAT — The pull that only shows up when the house is quiet; the habit's real hour.
- WHO — HIM, the one struggling; HER asleep in the next room, unaware.
- WHEN — 2am, after a fine day, which is exactly when it feels safe.
- WHERE — The kitchen, alone, the only light the fridge and the phone.
- HOW — Don't fix it at 2am. Fix it at 2pm by deciding in advance what 2am looks like — the app's SOS plan.

Shots:

1. HIM standing at an open fridge in a dark kitchen at night, lit only by the fridge light, staring in.

CAPTION: "It's never a problem at noon. It's 2am"

1. Wide shot of HIM small at the kitchen table in the dark, phone glowing on his face, the rest of the house black.

CAPTION: "The house is quiet. Nobody's watching"

1. HER asleep in bed in the next room, the door ajar, unaware.

CAPTION: "That's when it feels safe"

1. Close on HIM's thumb hovering over the phone screen, face lit from below.

CAPTION: "One more won't hurt. I've been doing well"

1. HIM sitting back in the chair, head tilted, eyes closed, phone still glowing.

CAPTION: "That's the story it tells. I've heard it for 38 years"

1. Close on HIM's hands typing a note into the phone, the screen light steady.

CAPTION: "So I wrote the plan while I was still clear"

1. HIM filling a glass of water at the sink, the fridge now closed behind him.

CAPTION: "You don't fix it at 2am. You fix it at 2pm"

1. HIM walking out of the dark kitchen toward a doorway of soft morning light.

CAPTION: "Minute one to minute eleven. Then it passes"

Caption: WHO — you, alone with the urge; the person you love asleep in the next room, unaware. WHAT — the pull that only shows up when the house is quiet. WHEN — 2am, after a fine day, when it feels safe. WHERE — the dark kitchen, the fridge and the phone the only light. HOW — decide in advance what 2am looks like; the SOS plan gets you minute one to eleven. Link in bio.

S3 — "The doorway" · supporter (the child) · 8 shots · 24s

YouTube title: What addiction does to the kid watching (nobody talks about it) TikTok / Facebook: You don't have to be the one using to be the one hurting.

Note: this one adds a third character. Keep HIM and HER as above, and add:

THE KID: their teenage son, 16, school hoodie, headphones around his neck.

The situation:

- WHAT — The quiet damage to the person in the next room: the child of addiction.
- WHO — THE KID, the supporter who never got asked; HIM, the parent struggling.
- WHEN — Every evening, when the house is supposed to be safe.
- WHERE — The doorway and the hallway between their rooms.
- HOW — The supporter section is built for them too — a private place that doesn't require anyone's permission.

Shots:

1. THE KID standing in a doorway, backpack on, looking into a dim living room where HIM sits on a couch lit by a TV.

CAPTION: "You don't have to be the one using to be the one hurting"

1. Close on THE KID's face in the doorway, expression carefully blank.

CAPTION: "You learn the face early"

1. THE KID in his room with headphones on, door closed, a thin strip of hallway light under the door.

CAPTION: "Headphones don't block out what you already know"

1. HIM asleep in the living room, TV glow flickering, THE KID's blurred silhouette passing in the hallway.

CAPTION: "You start checking on them instead of the other way around"

1. THE KID at a kitchen table doing homework alone, one plate, evening.

CAPTION: "Nobody asks you how you're doing"

1. Close on THE KID's hands around a phone in the dark, screen light on his face.

CAPTION: "You just want somewhere that doesn't ask for permission"

1. HER sitting beside THE KID on the edge of his bed, both quiet, morning light.

CAPTION: "It's not yours to fix. You were never supposed to carry it"

1. THE KID by a window in daylight, headphones down around his neck, looking out.

CAPTION: "There's a section built for you too"

Caption: WHO — the kid in the doorway, the supporter nobody ever asked; HIM, the parent struggling. WHAT — the quiet damage to the person watching. WHEN — every evening, when the house is supposed to feel safe. WHERE — the doorway and hallway between their rooms. HOW — a private place that doesn't need anyone's permission; the supporter section is free. Link in bio.

S4 — "Two bowls" · both (the turn) · 8 shots · 24s

YouTube title: He got sober — and then she had to heal too TikTok / Facebook: He's not the only one who gets a day one.

The situation:

- WHAT — Recovery is not one person's; the supporter's healing starts after his does.
- WHO — HIM, getting free; HER, finally allowed to feel what she carried.
- WHEN — The morning after it stuck; the first calm morning in years.
- WHERE — The same kitchen, transformed from battleground back to home.
- HOW — Both sides get a track in the app: his day counter, her own recovery — free for both.

Shots:

1. HIM setting his phone face-down on a kitchen table in morning light, sitting up straighter.

CAPTION: "He's not the only one who gets a day one"

1. HER standing at the kitchen sink, both hands on the counter, head down, sunlight on her.

CAPTION: "The day he got free, I finally fell apart"

1. Close on two phones face-up on the table, two different screens glowing softly.

CAPTION: "Two counters. Two recoveries"

1. HIM pouring coffee into two mugs at the counter, unhurried, no bottles anywhere in frame.

CAPTION: "The same kitchen. A different house"

1. HER sitting at the table, hands around a warm mug, a small, tired smile.

CAPTION: "I'd been holding my breath so long I forgot how to breathe out"

1. Two bowls on the table between them, morning light, both chairs pulled in.

CAPTION: "Now there are two bowls instead of one"

1. HIM and HER at the table across from each other, talking, ordinary and easy.

CAPTION: "Recovery isn't his and mine. It's ours"

1. Wide shot of the two of them at the table, morning light filling the room, calm.

CAPTION: "One app. Two people. Two day ones"

Caption: WHO — HIM, getting free, and HER, finally allowed to heal. WHAT — recovery is two-sided; the supporter's healing starts after his does. WHEN — the first calm morning in years. WHERE — the same kitchen, turned from battleground back into home. HOW — his day counter and her own track, free for both. One app, two day ones. Link in bio.

S5 — "The parked car" · addict · 8 shots · 24s

YouTube title: You can turn around before you hit bottom TikTok / Facebook: The engine's off. You could still go in. You don't have to.

The situation:

- WHAT — The decision point in the parked car, before the relapse: the moment you can still choose.
- WHO — HIM, alone with the choice; HER inside, not knowing.
- WHEN — Night, after the worst day, when the pull is loudest.
- WHERE — The parked car outside his own house, engine off, hands in his lap.
- HOW — You don't have to hit bottom to turn around. The SOS button is for exactly this parked-car minute.

Shots:

1. HIM sitting in a parked car at night, engine off, hands in his lap, streetlight through the windscreen.

CAPTION: "The engine's off. You could still go in. You don't have to"

1. Close on HIM's hands in his lap, then one hand moving toward the door handle.

CAPTION: "This is the minute everything is decided"

1. Through the windscreen: the front of an ordinary house, one window lit warm.

CAPTION: "Nobody hits bottom all at once. It's a thousand of these minutes"

1. HIM looking toward the lit window, jaw tight, not moving.

CAPTION: "I know every one of them. I took a thousand of these turns"

1. Close on HIM's phone in the passenger seat, screen dark, waiting.

CAPTION: "So I put the plan one tap away"

1. HIM picking up the phone, thumb hovering, face lit softly by the screen.

CAPTION: "Not a speech. Not willpower. A plan I wrote before I needed it"

1. HIM exhaling, hand back in his lap, head leaning back against the seat.

CAPTION: "The urge passes. It always passes"

1. HIM stepping out of the car toward the lit front door, walking away from the camera.

CAPTION: "You can turn around tonight"

Caption: WHO — you, alone with the choice; the person inside who doesn't know what tonight hung on. WHAT — the parked-car minute where the relapse is actually decided. WHEN — night, after the worst day. WHERE — outside your own house, engine off, hands in your lap. HOW — a plan written in advance, one tap away. You don't have to hit bottom to turn around. Link in bio.

SECTION 2 — MOVIE (AI animated scenes + voiceover)

Same engine as AI-SCENES.md A1–A8: generate the still, animate it, drop your recorded SAY lines over it. Reference photos of your man (and the woman) on every Animate action so the faces don't drift. House look line at the end of every image prompt:

cinematic photograph, shot on 35mm, shallow depth of field, moody realistic lighting, muted color grade, documentary realism, vertical 9:16 composition

Each is 4 shots × ~5–6s = 20–24s.

M1 — "The loop" · addict · 4 shots · 22s

YouTube title: Why you keep relapsing — the loop nobody names TikTok / Facebook: Same chair. Same night. Same promise. On repeat.

The situation:

- WHAT — The relapse loop: promise, white-knuckle, slip, shame, promise again.
- WHO — You, the one in the loop.
- WHEN — The same hour, every night, for years.
- WHERE — The same kitchen chair; time passing while nothing changes.
- HOW — Break the loop with a system instead of willpower: a written plan, a counter, and an SOS button that interrupts the hour.

SHOT 1 IMAGE: A bald bearded Black man in his late 40s sitting alone at a kitchen table at night, one dim lamp on, staring at a bottle and a glass in front of him, shoulders hunched MOTION: Very slow push in, he doesn't move, the lamp flickers once SAY: "Same chair. Same night. Same promise."

SHOT 2 IMAGE: The same man at the same table, head in his hands, the glass now empty, the room darker MOTION: Slow push in, he drags his hands down his face, the light dims SAY: "You swear it's the last time. And you mean it — every time."

SHOT 3 IMAGE: The same man at the same table in cold gray morning light, clothes rumpled, staring at his phone, the bottle still there MOTION: He picks the phone up slowly, looks at it, then back at the bottle SAY: "Then the shame does more damage than the thing itself."

SHOT 4 IMAGE: The same man standing at the same table in warm morning sunlight, bottle gone, holding a glass of water, writing in a notebook MOTION: He sits, opens the notebook, and writes, calm SAY: "Willpower gets you to Tuesday. A system gets you out of the loop."

Caption: WHO — you, stuck in the loop. WHAT — promise, white-knuckle, slip, shame, promise again. WHEN — the same hour, every night, for years. WHERE — the same kitchen chair. HOW — break it with a plan and an SOS button, not willpower. Link in bio.

M2 — "The weight" · supporter · 4 shots · 22s

YouTube title: What it's like to love someone with an addiction TikTok / Facebook: Nobody asks how heavy it is. So they keep smiling.

The situation:

- WHAT — The invisible weight a supporter carries while everyone thinks she's fine.
- WHO — HER, the supporter; HIM, the one struggling.
- WHEN — Every day, long before anyone asks.
- WHERE — Ordinary rooms where she performs "fine."

- HOW — Name the weight and get a program for it: the app's supporter section, free, so she's not carrying it alone.

SHOT 1 IMAGE: A Black woman in her mid-40s with long braids in a lit kitchen, smiling slightly at someone off-camera while setting a plate down, but her eyes are tired
MOTION: She holds the smile, then it fades the instant she turns away
SAY: "Nobody asks how heavy it is. So she keeps smiling."

SHOT 2 IMAGE: The same woman standing alone at a kitchen sink at night, both hands braced on the counter, head down, back to camera
MOTION: Her shoulders rise and fall with one slow breath, she doesn't move
SAY: "The minute the door closes, the face she's been holding drops."

SHOT 3 IMAGE: The same woman sitting alone in a hallway on the floor, back against the wall, knees pulled up, listening toward a closed door
MOTION: She tilts her head toward the door and holds still SAY: "She's carrying two recoveries. Only one of them has a name."

SHOT 4 IMAGE: The same woman at a kitchen table in warm morning light, holding a phone, her shoulders relaxed, a small exhale
MOTION: She looks at the phone, nods slightly, and her whole posture softens SAY: "Then she finds the part that was built for her. Finally."

Caption: WHO — the woman carrying it; the man who can't see the weight. WHAT — the invisible second recovery nobody names. WHEN — every day, the instant the door closes. WHERE — the kitchen, the hallway, ordinary rooms where she performs "fine." HOW — a section built for her, free, so she stops carrying two recoveries alone. Link in bio.

M3 — "Two sides of one wall" · both · 4 shots · 23s

YouTube title: Addiction looks different from each side of the door TikTok / Facebook: Same wall. Two completely different battles.

The situation:

- WHAT — The same night experienced from two sides: his urge, her worry.
- WHO — HIM on one side; HER on the other.
- WHEN — The same late hour, simultaneously.
- WHERE — One wall between them in the same house.
- HOW — Stop the silence: each side gets its own program in the app, and the wall stops being where the secret lives.

SHOT 1 IMAGE: Split view of one wall: on the left a bald bearded Black man in his late 40s hunched at a desk lit by a cold screen, on the right a Black woman with long braids sitting on the edge of a bed staring at a closed door, both in shadow
MOTION: Slow push in on the wall between them, both figures stay still SAY: "Same wall. Two completely different battles."

SHOT 2 IMAGE: The man's side: close on his hand reaching toward a drawer, face lit only by the screen, jaw tight
MOTION: His hand hesitates above the drawer, then pulls back
SAY: "On his side: the pull. The story that one more time won't hurt."

SHOT 3 IMAGE: The woman's side: she stands with one hand flat against the wall, ear toward it, eyes closed
MOTION: She leans her forehead against the wall and exhales
SAY: "On her side: the waiting. The knowing. The pretending not to know."

SHOT 4 IMAGE: Both of them at the same kitchen table in morning light, a phone between them, facing each other, talking MOTION: She slides the phone toward him, he looks at it and nods, warm light grows SAY: "The wall doesn't fall. It stops being where the secret lives."

Caption: WHO — HIM on one side, HER on the other. WHAT — the same night from two sides: his urge, her worry. WHEN — the same late hour, at the same time. WHERE — one wall between them in the same house. HOW — each side gets its own program, and the wall stops holding the secret. Link in bio.

M4 — "Before the bottom" · addict · 4 shots · 22s

YouTube title: You don't have to hit rock bottom to stop TikTok / Facebook: He stopped walking down before he hit the bottom.

The situation:

- WHAT — The myth that you must hit bottom first; you can turn around mid-descent.
- WHO — You, the one on the stairs.
- WHEN — Tonight, before the next step down.
- WHERE — The staircase — every step is a "just one more."
- HOW — Recognize the step you're on and turn around now, with a plan and a counter instead of waiting to lose it all.

SHOT 1 IMAGE: A bald bearded Black man in his late 40s standing at the top of a dim staircase, looking down into darkness, one hand on the rail MOTION: Very slow push in, he looks down but doesn't step SAY: "They tell you to wait until you hit bottom."

SHOT 2 IMAGE: The same man a few steps down the staircase, half in shadow, the light above him fading MOTION: He takes one slow step down, then stops SAY: "But every step down is a 'just one more' you already regret."

SHOT 3 IMAGE: The same man stopped midway on the stairs, one hand gripping the rail, looking back up toward the light MOTION: He turns his head toward the light above, still holding the rail SAY: "You don't have to see the bottom to know it's down there."

SHOT 4 IMAGE: The same man climbing back up the stairs toward warm light at the top, moving with quiet resolve MOTION: He climbs up and the light grows, a small nod as he reaches the top SAY: "You can turn around tonight. The counter starts the moment you do."

Caption: WHO — you, on the way down. WHAT — the myth that you must hit bottom before you stop. WHEN — tonight, before the next step. WHERE — the staircase, where every step is a "just one more." HOW — turn around now: a counter and a plan start the climb. Link in bio.

M5 — "Two day ones" · both · 4 shots · 23s

YouTube title: Recovery for the whole family — the app nobody else built TikTok / Facebook: Two phones. Two counters. Two day ones.

The situation:

- WHAT — What "recovery for both of them" actually looks like on day one.
- WHO — HIM and HER, each starting their own count.
- WHEN — The same morning, together.

- WHERE — The kitchen table where everything used to fall apart.
- HOW — The app's two-sided design: his 13 tracks, her supporter section — free for both.

SHOT 1 IMAGE: Two phones face-up on a kitchen table in soft morning light, both screens glowing, a bald bearded Black man and a Black woman with long braids seated on either side, out of focus MOTION: Slow push in on the two phones, the two figures lean in slightly SAY: "Two phones. Two counters. Two day ones."

SHOT 2 IMAGE: Close on the man's hands holding one of the phones, his thumb on the screen, focused MOTION: He taps the screen once and exhales SAY: "His side: 13 habits that work together, not against each other."

SHOT 3 IMAGE: Close on the woman's hands holding the other phone, screen light soft on her face, calm MOTION: She scrolls slowly, then stops, shoulders relax SAY: "Her side: the part built for the person who loves him. Finally."

SHOT 4 IMAGE: The two of them at the table, phones set down side by side, two bowls between them, morning light, both looking at each other MOTION: They reach for the bowls at the same time, a quiet, ordinary ease SAY: "Most apps make you pick one habit, for one person. This one's for both of you."

Caption: WHO — him and her, each starting their own count. WHAT — recovery built for both sides, not one. WHEN — the same morning, together. WHERE — the kitchen table where it used to fall apart. HOW — his 13 tracks, her supporter section, free for both. One app, two day ones. Link in bio.
